SUMMARY

Resourceful public health professional with extensive experience in grant project coordination, health informatics, and emergency preparedness. Proven ability to manage complex timelines, facilitate multi-stakeholder communication, and develop data-driven tools such as R Shiny dashboards for SDOH surveillance. Adept at ensuring IRB and data governance compliance. Seeking to leverage strong organizational and analytical skills to support public health initiatives at your organization.

WORK EXPERIENCE

05/2025 – 01/2026

Research Assistant — Grant Project Coordinator
Cherokee Nation Public Health

- Orchestrated the operational coordination for a complex, multi-phase grant-funded public health informatics project, managing timelines, preparing meeting materials, tracking deliverables, and drafting stakeholder correspondence.
- Facilitated communication between the academic Principal Investigator, Tribal health leadership, and community analysts by scheduling and leading structured focus group and training sessions.
- Authored formal written reports and documentation detailing all research activities, data sources, and analytic decisions, ensuring compliance with Institutional Review Board (IRB) determinations and Tribal data governance requirements.
- Engineered public health informatics tools, including an R Shiny Social Determinants of Health (SDOH) dashboard, and embedded a training framework, subsequently conducting mixed-methods evaluation and compiling a user feedback analysis report.
- Maintained GitHub-based version control and a full audit trail to ensure a reproducible research workflow.

10/2024 – 05/2025
